The company's original goal was to provide musicians with a platform to collaborate by sharing work and discussion. It later developed into a global platform for music streaming and full release. A survey of cable magazines reveals how the company has evolved into a leading music distribution platform and how Myspace has fierce competition. In April 2009, the company received the first A series financing of EUR 2,5 million from Doughty Hanson Technology Ventures. Shortly after that funding, the company announced in May 2010 that it had exceeded one million users. In addition, Union Square Ventures and Index Ventures have invested an additional 10 million In June 2011, the company announced that it had reached five million registered users. After the announcement, they received additional funding for the famous Hollywood actor Ashton Kutcher and talent manager A- class, as well as european entrepreneur Guy Oseary. Earlier this year, the company announced that it now has 10 million registered users. In addition, more than 15 million users have been in excess of 15 million users since May 2012, and the use of websites reaches 1.5 million users every month. At the end of that year, in December 2012, the company issued a new update to APN. Improves support for your mobile device and adds features such as site navigation, listening, and creating personal collections. During this time, SoundCloud reaches 180 million people every month, and 10 hours of content is added every minute. At the next level in July 2013, the company announced that it had reached 40 million registered users. The following year, they began negotiating with major music companies and publishers to publish content on their platforms. Those discussions have resulted in an additional round of funding worth $60 million. This new investment round increases the company's valuation to $700 million. This new valuation and the company's growing online presence, as well as its user base, have attracted interest from tech giants such as Twitter for future collaborations. In the fourth quarter of 2017, the company raised an additional $169.5 million from temasek and raïne groups. As of 2019, the company says it has 175 million regular users each month. That same year, the company acquired a repost network from the artists distribution platform. In January 2020, the company received another $75 million investment from the Sirius XM network.
